

UI mockups

Our group was forced to take a break from working on the project in order to accomodate our exams. Now that we are free to progress with our project, we decided to work on the design of our user interface. We used Wireframe to design UI mockups and we learned about the existence of interface design tool called Figma which we will use to design high fidelity mockups.